

Imagination Library Week 2015 – Jefferson County, Tennessee

Each year, the third week of September has been celebrated as Imagination Library Week in Tennessee. During this week, Imagination Library county affiliates are encouraged to host activities that raise awareness for the program and boost enrollment in their county. Governor Haslam issues a proclamation and Tennesseans are reminded of the importance of reading to young children and the value of having Imagination Library books in the home.

Imagination Library Week 2015 is September 14 through 19.

Since 2004, nearly 24 million books have been mailed to children and 451,000 five-year-old children have graduated from Tennessee's Imagination Library program. Nearly 242,000 books will be mailed to enrolled children in September, a new record!

Thank you for all you do to help build a foundation for reading and learning through books for Tennessee's children.

* Participation in Jefferson County is free. However, if anyone would like to help by sponsoring a child in Jefferson County, donations, which are 100% tax-deductible, may be made/mailed to:
